

D-Link Australia's Managing Director Takes on New Assignment in Europe

Sydney, May 15, 2003 - D-Link, a worldwide leader in design, development, and manufacturing of networking, broadband, wireless, and communications technologies, today announced the imminent departure of Kevin Wen, Managing Director D-Link Australia & New Zealand, who will be departing D-Link Australia to take on a new assignment at D-Link Europe, at the end of the month.

"This has been a difficult decision in my life, "said Kevin Wen."I have made Australia my home over the last 7 years, and I've watched D-Link Australia grow in leaps and bounds. It's been a pleasure to work with the team in Australia. I see this move to Europe as a great opportunity for me and my family."

Kevin will take on the role as the Vice President of Southern Europe and the European Product Management team which will be based out of London.

"Kevin has been a key driving force in Australia and has catapulted D-Link as a major networking vendor in both Australia and New Zealand, "said Tony Tsao, President D-Link International.

"Kevin's replacement will be announced on Monday the 19th May, "said Tsao.
